

The Owingsville Outlook.

VOL. XX.

OWINGSVILLE, KENTUCKY, THURSDAY, MARCH 23, 1899.

NO. 35.

Notice.

Having sold a half-interest in my business, and desiring to close up my individual affairs as speedily as possible, I earnestly request all those indebted to me to settle with-out delay.

S. P. ARCHER.

It was John Tackett, tenant of J. B. Crouch, who sold his tobacco instead of John Fleming as THE OUTLOOK stated last week.

If Brother & Goodpastor haven't what you want in garden seeds, we don't know where you will find it.

Contractor James W. Smith expects to have W. D. Littlefoot's residence, in the east end of town, completed in 10 to 15 days.

Saddles and Harness, cheaper than you ever bought them before, at Ramsey & Co's.

CHAMPION DICK.—As a checker player Dick Conner is a "right smart." Last Saturday night he and a gentleman in Ashland played a couple of games by telegraph, and Dick won both.

The celebrated Jersey Wakefield cabbage seed. For sale by Brother & Goodpastor.

The usual premature zeal in garden-making was displayed by some during the pretty days last week, but the snow Saturday night warned them that a few fine days don't make spring at all.

Stores, Tin- and Queensware offered very cheap at Ramsey & Co's to close out.

Wm. Kelley died at the Poor-house Wednesday of last week, of neuralgia of the heart. He was a member of the 40th Kentucky Regiment, U. S. V. I., in the Civil War. He had applied for a pension, but failed to get it.

WANTED.—A young 3- or 4-year-old stallion. Must be cheap. Apply to Dr. G. W. CONNER, Owingsville, Ky.

BREAKS UP HOUSEKEEPING.—Jas. Gillon has rented his residence property to Squire John A. Daugherty, giving possession April 1st. He will sell privately his household goods. He is undetermined yet just what business he will engage in, but will probably first travel awhile for the benefit of his health.

Garden Seeds of every description at bulk at Brother & Goodpastor's.

Mrs. Spencer Boyd and Mrs. Geo. B. Donaldson, of near Reynoldsville, went Thursday on a shopping and sight-seeing visit to Lexington, to be guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Cassidy while there. The former's husband requested us to state that the ladies were expected to return home during the early spring. They returned Monday and report an enjoyable time.

T. S. Shroat will sell you Furniture, Buggies and Coffins cheaper than anyone. Cash or credit.

PAROLE.—Lieutenant and Acting Governor Worthen, pardoned the Owingsville Electric Co. of its indictment in the Franklin Circuit Court for failure to comply exactly with the law in making a report to the State authorities, stating that it was evident that the said company had not willfully violated the law, but had manifested considerable zeal in endeavoring to comply with the law.

Now is the time to buy a plow and set of gears while Ramsey & Co. are selling cheap to close out.

TOBACCO SALES.—J. M. Richart's purchases on East Fork of Flat Creek, A. F. Stephens and Nallie Perkins at 5c; on Naylor's Branch, John Horseman's at 5c.

A. W. Bascom bought Robert Nixon's at 5c.

George A. Peed's purchases: on Prickly Ash, A. K. Coyle's at 5c; same and tenant James Conyers' at 5c; same and John Johnson's at 4c; on upper State Creek, Jacob and J. C. Warner's at 5c.

Wm. C. Tipton and Polk Manley sold their tobacco, on lower State Creek, to Thos. H. Gray, of Flemingsburg, at 7c.

Purchases of A. J. Nesbitt and A. C. Jones: near town, C. T. Horseman's at 5c; on Prickly Ash, Fletcher Crouch and Henry Sorrell's at 5c and a premium; J. T. Horseman's at 4c; on Washington Branch, Curran Crouch's at 5c; Fielder Horseman's at 5c.

Robertson Bros., of Bethel, T. J. Jones' crop, at Wyoming, at 7c.

Mrs. CRIT WHALEY'S DEATH.—The host of relatives and friends of Mrs. Crit Whaley in this county were deeply grieved to hear of her death, announced here in a dispatch to her uncle Richard Bigstaff, at her home in Independence, Missouri, March 18th. She was aged about 48 years, was reared in the Flat Creek section of this county, and resided there until her marriage to Mr. Whaley about twenty-five years ago. The end was not unexpected, as she had been suffering for some time with consumption of the lungs. She was a daughter of Sinneret Young, her mother being a daughter of Dr. O. S. Bigstaff. She was one of the finest women ever reared in this county and was universally admired for her beautiful character, her accomplishments and many charms and graces of mind and person. The husband and family have the sincere condolences of THE OUTLOOK in their irreparable loss.

Talking about Seed Irish and Sweet Potatoes you ought to see what Brother & Goodpastor have. They are the finest specimens we ever saw; pure New York stock.

W. T. Moore, son of David Moore, of Reynoldsville, and Miss Martha Snedegar, daughter of Moses Snedegar, of White Oak, were licensed to wed Monday. The wedding was reported to be set for Wednesday.

Ramsey & Co's stock is diminishing rapidly under the low prices offered. Don't you need something in their line?

WHAT RUBE SAYS.—In connection with Prof. Falb's dreadful prophecies for this year it is interesting to learn that Reuben Fields, the famous mental mathematician and animated timepiece of Warrensburg, Mo., now on his periodical visit to this country, says that a tornado will strike this town on June 4th and make debris of it. Rube's mathematical powers are unquestionable, wonderful as they may appear in mere relation to one who has never tested them. His chronological ability, more mysterious than his calculating powers, is accurate enough for all purposes except perhaps timing a race, but prophecy is a new role for Rube, and skepticism is permissible.

All persons knowing themselves indebted to us please call and settle their accounts at once.

Rept., S. SLESSER.

SOLDIER'S LETTER.—General Hospital, Ward H, Savannah, Ga., March 12, 1899.—TO THE OUTLOOK: As I have left Cuba and am now in the General Hospital, Savannah, I wish you would address THE OUTLOOK to the hospital above named.

My health is improving slowly, but it will be some time before I regain my health. I landed in Cuba on the twenty-fifth of November last. I was sick when I went ashore. I first took sick with a slight attack of yellow jaundice. I was well only two weeks until I was taken sick with a severe pain in my chest. There were several doctors examined me. I believe five different times. Some pronounced it lung trouble and some palpitation of the heart. I don't think any of them know. I think it is indigestion. We are well cared for here, have plenty to eat (a rarity), plenty of nice shade, nice beds, and anything a person can care for. We had one man to die in our company (B) and he was sick only a day or two. He died of yellow fever. I suppose I will get a turlough in two or three weeks. I wouldn't object if they would give me one tomorrow. This is the longest summer I ever experienced. I enlisted on the twenty-first of June in Cincinnati, Ohio. We left there on July sixth for Ft. Sheridan, Ill.; left there on August twenty-fourth for Montauk Point, Long Island, N. Y.; left there on Oct. fifth for Savannah, Ga.; left there on Nov. twenty-first for Tampa, Fla.; arrived there and left on the twenty-second of Nov. on the transport Florida for Cuba; and on the twenty-fifth we were in Cuba. I left there on the hospital ship Missouri March sixth, 1899, and landed in Savannah, Ga., on the eleventh. Almost a summer of ten months.

Well, I will close, hoping to receive THE OUTLOOK soon and join my Bath county friends once more. I remain yours, GUY H. RATLIFF, Co. B, 2d U. S. V. Engineers, now in Cuba.

Good Whisky is both doctor and tonic. Better looking than doctors, better tasting than all medicine. For general family use, nothing equals whisky and HARPER Whisky is pre-eminently the family whisky.

CRICKS.

I sent in my items last Monday, but they never reached the office. Chris Garner has put up a nice new residence and moved into it last week.

Brother Tinsley's meetings were largely attended and did a great deal of good.

James Snedegar and wife visited John Shroat and wife, near Moore's Ferry, last week.

Sam Shultz and wife visited the family of Daniel Blevins, near Olympia, last week.

James Snedegar and wife moved Thursday to Jo Toy's, near Sharpburg, on the Ben Wright farm.

Mrs. Jo Snedegar and children Clyde and Walter visited Mrs. Melissa Snedegar one day last week.

There is talk of some one setting up a "batch sching," but I think it will fall through for the lack of a fiddler.

Robert Kelly and wife moved into the house vacated by Dee Rudder. We were glad to have them come in our midst; we always welcome good people.

Dee Rudder moved last week to the John Craig property on Prickly Ash. We are all very sorry to lose Dee and his estimable wife, for they were good neighbors.

John Coyle moved to the C. W. Honaker farm on Prickly Ash. We were sorry to have them go, for John was a good neighbor and had a nice family, but at the same time we know he made a good move.

Died, Wednesday of last week, Willie Davis, the six-year-old son of Jeff Davis and wife, after a long illness of spinal meningitis. The sorrowing parents have the sympathy of the community in their sad bereavement.

Grieve no more for little Willie; He from suffering now is free. For the Savior said of children: "Suffer such to come to me."

He has taken little Willie To the happy realms above, Where can come no tears nor sick-ness.

But unmeasured joy and love. Little Willie is an angel, Free from sorrow, pain and strife; He'll never know the sorrows That crowd this mortal life.

You again may meet your darling In that land of pure delight, And be numbered with the just ones In their garments pure and white.

Knob Lick.

Some ore was shipped last week. Some plowing was done last week.

Sam Snelling is talking of moving to near Odessa.

We had one nice day Friday. Since then it has been fearful.

Charley Fowler killed a very large mallard duck on the Co's land.

Wm. Moore delivered some clover hay to Dad Witherow at 70c per hundred.

Ben Spence moved to the Hose Hart place from J. M. Collier's place last week.

THE SICK.—Milton Meeks is convalescent from an attack of measles. Jesse Meeks is better from an attack of pneumonia. John Bannan is very poorly with measles.

Mrs. Wm. Goodpastor and child have measles; also Ben Maze and Mrs. Jas. Goodpastor.

There were several young men here Sunday that seemed to have been imbibing freely of somebody's poison. They were fulfilling the Scriptures as they passed here, the blind leading the blind. Why is it that men violate the laws every day through the week and do not stop to violate God's law by selling whisky on Sunday to brutalize their fellow men? Is the law a failure?

In last week's issue I mentioned some of the advantages to the people of the benefit to be derived from the Referendum, and in view of having to elect a Representative soon it would be well for the people to know what they are doing and not support any man, it matters not of what party, unless he will pledge himself to use his honest endeavors to get it enacted into a law. Direct legislation is a simple proposition. It merely means they have the right to vote on all laws that govern them. Their vote makes or breaks the law, the will of the people being supreme. At present the will of a few black-legged politicians is the law. The imperative mandate, which gives the people the ability to retire any official at will, would prevent such corrupt practices as have obtained in States of late in the election of Senators. No man would pay $10,000 each for votes when the people could claw him out of his purchased nest. The working, producing class have to pay for every bribe. Labor produces all wealth, and when legislation is purchased it is always by men who never did a day's useful labor in their lives. When they buy laws they always make back the bribe money and more besides. If voting Kings, however, had the power to change the laws at will through the initiative then no one would buy the legislators of easy virtue. They might succeed in delivering the goods, but the voters could recover them at any time. Such bargain-would be without any practical value. Direct legislation will give the poor old constituent an opportunity to shape legislation. The lawmakers have to heed the populace or the pulpit can do what they wish. At present after election the average legislator pays no more attention to the people than he would a yellow dog. They are getting all they deserve, the people are. When they are wiser they will get more. No man will buy an office if the people have the imperative mandate tied to his leg. They might have him out of office before he got his money back. You see if the imperative mandate was in operation a certain per cent. of the voters could demand that the officeholder be retired. The people would then vote on the question of whether he should remain in office or not, and his fate would rest with them. It would only be a modest request to ask your would-be Representative to have it enacted into a law or to use his earnest endeavors to that end. He would not necessarily have to compromise his party to do so. It is simply elevating a principle above party, but I would want to know his sincerity before I could give my support, nor would I advise the people to do so. I would want to see enacted into law any one, but it is a plain proposition. It is the man asking for the suffrage of the people, and not the people asking for anything; only for their votes to count for something, or, in other words, the people to rule, as was bequeathed to them by the Constitution. I would like an expression from all the corps in this proposition.

Falb's Prophecies.

The forecast for 1898 has followed: "January and February—Unprecedented cold waves, cyclones and hurricanes at sea, with great loss to shipping, particularly on the American continent."

"Toward End of March—Earthquakes and destroying hailstorms."

"J. V. August—Tidal wave, destroying eastern coast of America, and California becoming a submarine earth."

"November—Great comet to come in con-juncture with the moon to destroy planet, to be, in a solitary, partially destroyed."

This is the cheerful prediction of Professor Imthold Falb, of Vienna, a noted seismologist and meteorologist, and author of numerous scientific works, in March, 1894, forwarded to the Imperial Academy of Science at Vienna. Probably nothing more would have been heard of the prediction if the meteorological conditions of the latter part of January and early part of February, of this year, had not corresponded with "Professor Falb's" predictions.

In consequence of the Falb and his predictions a great deal of interest has been manifested in his predictions on seismic disturbances have been remarkably fulfilled. As, for instance, the great earthquake at Zante in 1893, the several days before the earthquake occurred, sent warning to the press all over Europe. Again, in March, 1893, he was invited to lecture before the Tourist Club, of Vienna, on the subject of earthquakes, but, while accepting the invitation, postponed the lecture until after April 13, as an earthquake would take place about that time and for would prefer to include the results of his investigation of this earthquake in his lecture.

And, as the German proverb has it, "Has du mir gesehen," the earthquake did occur on April 8 and was felt all over southern Hungary and did much damage.

Many incidents like these could be quoted, where predictions have been made one to two years in advance and been fulfilled. Professor Falb's disclaimers in the most peremptory manner that his warnings should be classed as predictions or prophecies.

"I am not a prophet," he said in an interview. "My theories are simply scientific investigations into the nature of the earth. The interior of the earth is filled with a matter mass, subject to ebb and flow just like the waters of the ocean. Every intelligent and educated man knows this. Between the surface of the earth and this molten mass, which is slowly cooling, there is only a shell of an average of eighteen miles in thickness, in some places thinner than in others, and here the confined force escapes in the form of gas. But not finding such an outlet, through the influence of the moon, a great tidal wave sweeps round the inner crust of the earth and produces the terrible phenomena known as earthquakes."

This is, in short, Professor Falb's theory, and it has been much disputed, particularly his reference to the influence of the moon. Professor Falb calls attention to the "fully established" instances where a comet has come in contact with our planet and the result.

January 14, ten people killed in China by the fall of a meteor.

November 3, thirty-five villages destroyed in Saxony.

September 4, many lives destroyed by falling meteors at Crema.

November 4, a ship crossing the Atlantic was struck, killing several sailors.

Each of these instances, says Professor Falb, can be regarded as the fall of a small comet upon our planet.—Ex.

A GIRL'S CONUNDRUM.—A Greenville girl deserves the cake for co-quette. She put the question to her sweetheart: "Why were the boys who left here for the late war like the seat of a man's trousers?" This was a poser, but the young fellow made an effort. "Because," he ventured, "they were worn out in the service." No, that was not it. Then he thought he had it. "Because they were so repeatedly set upon," he said. The young lady shook her head. He gave it up and then she informed him that it was, "Because they were never intended for the front."—Hartford Herald.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water, and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What to do.

There is comfort in the knowledge often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fully cures every ailment arising from them, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder, and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and sealding pain in passing it, or had effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up at night, and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing be sure and mention that you read this generous offer in this paper.

DID NOT KNOW BEREFOED.

Mariners at the Brooklyn Navy Yard thought they knew this Progress.

Lord Charles Bereford has returned to England well equipped with material for a good story. He was the first of the alert marines at the Brooklyn navy yard, with the assistance of an auto cab. Lord Charles had an engagement before he sailed to visit the navy yard. He had informed Commodore Philip, commander of the yard, of the time he was to arrive, and the commodore telephoned instructions to the staff street gate to admit Lord Charles and his carriage without question. He ordered, further, that the marines on duty at the gate should line up and stand at attention as the rear admiral of the English navy rode in.

Down through the mud of Sand street came bowling alone a common-looking horseless cab. The sharp-eyed sentry paid no attention whatever to the auto cab, which audaciously ran through the gate and was seen speeding into the grounds before the sergeant of marines ran out and stopped it. "Black up," ordered the sergeant of marines. "There's never been a horseless carriage in this yard, and there won't be while I'm here."

So the man on the cab began maneuvering to back out the gate, when a large, good-natured face protruded from the cab window. "I give you my word of honor," said the owner of the face, smilingly, "I'm Bereford."

The sergeant of marines retained presence of mind enough to refrain from fainting, the guard poured out and stood at attention and the triumphant man on the cab steered his horseless vehicle into the yard, where Commodore Philip met his guest.

ENDURANCE OF A FOX HOUND.

Remarkable Chase for Nearly Forty-Night Shows for a Kentucky Dog.

The most remarkable fox chase on record, so far as the test of a hound's endurance is concerned, took place in eastern Kentucky last week. Ben McIntosh, a negro residing in Breckinridge county, is the possessor of a famous hunter named Queen, which animal started the chase with four other dogs, wore out several packs before the chase was anything like ended, and did not stop for food, drink or sleep for nearly 48 hours. Queen ran incessantly all day and all night for two days and nights, and before the chase came to an end the whole countryside was attracted to it. The dog, after running beyond to cover, lay down upon the ground, limp and almost dead. When found she was so stiff and sore that she was taken home in the arms of her owner. Queen, in that section of the country, has the reputation of being the best fox hunter on earth. This remarkable chase was started by Queen and for the first 24 hours no person took any interest in it.

THE ROUGH RIDER.

BUCK TAYLOR, SAYS:

"Per-una is the Best Catarrh Cure on Earth—It Has Cured Me."

Sergeant Buck Taylor, one of the famous Rough Riders, is a personal friend of Governor Roosevelt, of New York. He accompanied Governor Roosevelt on his great stamping tour through upper New York state. He was promoted through gallantry in the field during the late war.

The sergeant has the following to say of Per-una: "I think there is no better medicine on earth than Per-una, for catarrh. It has cured me. It would take a volume to tell you all the good it has done me. Per-una is the best catarrh cure on earth, and I know, for I have tried nearly all of them. Respectfully,

"Buck F. Taylor."

Winter weather causes catarrh. Everybody knows this. But everybody does not stop to think that winter weather delays the cure of catarrh. It takes longer to cure a case of catarrh in the winter generally, than in the warm season. Spring is here. Now is the time favorable to the treatment of old and especially stubborn cases of catarrh.

DIGGING FOR THE DEAD

The Terrific Conflagration in the Windsor Hotel, New York.

Sixteen People Are Known to Be Dead and Forty-Four Are Missing.

A Long List of Mangled and Burned Victims—Several Will Die.

Little Progress Made in Removing the Debris From the Ruins of the Hotel.

Almer McKinley's Family, Who Were Guests of the Hotel, Miraculously Escaped.

Flaming Debris, From Windows to Roofs, Shows of Horrifying Intensity Described. Financial Loss of Almost One Million Told.

NEW YORK, March 19.

Flames which originated from the lighting of a lace curtain burst forth from the second floor of the Windsor hotel at 47th street and Fifth avenue, shortly after 5 o'clock Friday afternoon, just as St. Patrick's day parade was passing the building and in a few moments they had leaped up to the roof and enveloped the entire Fifth avenue and 47th street fronts of the hotel. Ten minutes later the flames were pouring through the interior of the hotel, and all escape by means of stairways and elevators was out of the question. The scene of excitement within and without the building. Hundreds of guests and employees were in the hotel when the fire broke out, and for many of them to escape with safety was impossible.

Soon after the first alarm was given people in the lower floors of the hotel, those who had easy access to the street and the stairway, commenced to pour out of the building in great numbers, but it soon became very apparent that a great majority of the occupants of the hotel were either panic-stricken or unable to make their way to the ground floor.

Windows were thrown up on every side of the building and the guests, mostly women, in all stages of terror, made their appearance and uttered frantic appeals for assistance to the crowd below. As the flames gathered about them they became more and more terror-stricken, and presently some of them stood upon the narrow window sills and beckoned to the spectators that they were about to leap.

The men collected upon the sidewalks ready to render any assistance they could, and in the meantime some of the women left the window sills and dropped to the streets. In most instances the efforts to catch them and break their awful fall were unavailing, for they struck the sidewalk and in most cases broken limbs were the result.

As soon as the firemen could get their scaling ladders into position they climbed the sides of the building and entered at every window where there was an unfortunate guest appealing for assistance, and many cases of heroic rescue were witnessed by the throng in the streets. At the corner of 47th street and 4th avenue, directly across from the hotel is the home of Miss Helen Gould, and at her direction many of the injured were carried there and were treated by physicians and nurses whom she had sent for. In the meantime the chief of police had telephoned to every hospital in the city, asking that assistance be sent. Ambulances forced their way through the crowds as quickly as possible and the injured people who had made the frightful leaps from the hotel windows were placed in them and removed to the hospital. Several occupants of the hotel jumped at the windows of the sixth and seventh stories and even on the roof and leaped to the streets from those points.

Very few of them escaped either instant death or injuries which resulted in their death a short time later. One of the most daring rescues effected by the firemen occurred on the fifth floor on the 5th avenue front. An elderly woman was seen at a window and two firemen succeeded in reaching the window immediately underneath. One of them climbed to the coping of the window on which she was standing and then using the woman's clear of the window and landed her safe in the arms of his companion, who with the assistance of several other firemen, passed her down to the street.

The first horror occurred just 15 minutes after the fire broke out. A handsome woman appeared at the window of a room on the fourth floor, held out her arms to the crowd below. Then she raised her hands as if in supplication, and in a moment climbed to the window and leaped. She turned about like a top, and struck the iron railing in front of the hotel. Her body seemed to be impaled there, but fell off and into the street below. She was dead.

The woman was identified as Mrs. Amelia Padlock, of Irvington, N. Y. New York, March 20.—The most complete list of casualties at the Windsor hotel fire shows that 14 persons were killed and possibly 15 without attempting to speculate on the bodies in the ruins. Forty persons missing. Fifty-two names are in the list of injured whose whereabouts are known.

Three fire engines and a hundred policemen remained all night about the burning building. Those engines poured six large streams of water on the flames, which were kept under intervals in spite of the firemen. Little explosions occurred every once in a while from escaping gas, the pipes having been smashed all over the lower part of the building, the only part that was left. Citizens were kept a block away from the ruins, as pieces of wall were falling every now and then, and there was danger that the portion of wall at the back of the building and that on the 46th street side might fall at any time. The bit of wall on the 46th street side in fact tumbled to a point and still held two chimneys in place. It was pulled down during the day. The wall on the rear side, seven stories high, stood, standing, but it looked as though it might fall with the first stiff breeze. The wall on the 47th street side was about two stories high, and that in front on Fifth avenue about the same height. The walls had cracks in them and had jagged tops, adding to the hideous appearance of the ruins behind them, which smoked and steamed, and emitted a bad stench.

Fifth avenue and 47th and 48th streets were impassable. They were covered with debris from the walls of the hotel and in many instances the stones were broken by the great crash of stone and brick.

The house of Helen Gould, on the northeast corner of 17th street, was surrounded by a cordon of police all night and morning, while detectives guarded the interior. A policeman accompanied every person who entered the house. Beyond a few windows broken by the fire, the house was scarcely damaged at all, except very slightly on the top where the fire caught Friday night.

The interior was in great confusion. All bodies and all the injured had been taken away. Miss Gould and her brother Frank slept in the house all night.

The surviving daughter of Warren Leland, Lanny, remains a prisoner of fortune. She is reported by the calamity that has fallen on the family. Warren Leland, Jr., stated emphatically Saturday morning that though his father is prostrated with grief, he is not at all insane as had been reported. "He is grief-stricken, but sane as ever," said young Leland.

He added that he thought the books of the hotel, including the register, could be gotten at some time Saturday also, the safe, in which there was considerable money and valuables of those staying at the hotel. The register will be invaluable in clearing up the list of dead, missing and injured.

A. A. Nimis, of this city, said he went to the hotel Friday afternoon arriving at 5 o'clock. He went up in the elevator to go to the rooms of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wiedenmann, who are missing. At the third floor he and the other persons in the elevator heard shouts of fire, and the elevator stopped at the third floor. He got out and ran to the front of the house to a fire escape. As he passed the end room he saw a man, a stranger, and one who did not appear to be a guest of the hotel, grabbing up valuables in the room, like a miser. He said he was astounded at the sight.

"I caught the man," said Mr. Nimis, "and said: 'Why don't you try to save some lives instead of robbing dead people?' The man turned his face to me and gave me a look that seemed to be a murderer's. Then he dashed out. He carried about 200 dollars in cash. I'm sure he was not a guest of the hotel."

John McIntire, of this city, was looking for his niece, Mary Clark, who is 22 years old, and was employed as a chambermaid on the sixth floor of the hotel. He had seen nothing of her since the fire.

REVISED LIST OF DEAD.

John Connolly, employee of hotel, died at Flower hospital; Mrs. Addie Gibson, 25, Cincinnati, Ill., shock, died at Murray Hill hotel; Eleanor Louis Goodman, 12, daughter of Samuel Goodman, of this city, died at Bellevue hospital; Miss Lascasie Grandy, heart, died here on 4th street; Henry, of this city, who died at a private hospital at 5 o'clock Saturday morning from burns and injuries; Nancy Ann Kirk, widow of James S. Kirk, soap manufacturer, Chicago, died at Bellevue hospital; Mrs. Warren Leland, wife of the proprietor of the hotel, burned of body, died at Flower hospital; Miss Helen Leland, daughter of the hotel proprietor, found dead. Amelia Padlock, aged 35, of Irvington, N. Y., died at the fire. Mary Sullivan, died at Bellevue hospital, of this city. Unknown woman, who jumped from roof at rear of hotel. Unknown woman, who jumped from a 15th Avenue window, died at Helen Gould's house. Unknown child, thrown from window by mother. Unknown woman, mother of child above mentioned, who jumped from hotel window. Unknown woman, jumped from window, died at 19 East 46th street.

New York, March 20.—Little progress was made Sunday in removing the debris of the Windsor hotel fire in the effort to discover the bodies that are supposed to be buried there. All day long 200 men labored as much as the misty, muddy, steaming mass of broken stones, twisted iron and crushed brick would permit. A stifling vapor arose continually retarding progress of the workers and keeping them for the most part away from the center of the ruins. From Fifth avenue much of the debris that had fallen into the street had been cleared away and the men were able to reach the portions of the first floor. What small portions of wall could be blasted down were leveled, but the great pillar of brick at the 47th street end still stood. It was in such a threatening condition that the police notified the residents of the houses across the street to remain in the rear of their dwellings to prevent any fatalities when the crash came.

Up to midnight no bodies had been discovered and no more deaths from injuries received at the fire were reported from the hospitals, but a number of the injured were still in a serious condition. The death list remains the same as Saturday—sixteen—and the list of missing has been reduced to 44, as a number of those previously unaccounted for reported in person or had been located by friends.

Just before midnight two sections of the rear or eastern wall of the hotel fell in with a mighty crash. Fortunately no one was near and the collapse was more beneficial than otherwise.

Two engines were still on the ground at a late hour throwing streams on the wreck. The only things found during the early part of the night were a set of artificial teeth on a gold plate and some articles of clothing.

Sunday night the persons living in the three houses nearest to the wall on 47th street were ordered out by the police because of the danger of its being blown down by the high wind. The ruins still smolder and the smoke and gases blowing in the faces of the workers made their task one of great toil and hardship. From time to time men were compelled to desert for a few minutes. By midnight

PORTO RICO'S FIRST CIRCUS.

It Was the First American Attraction After the Victory of the Troops.

"The first American circus to appear in Porto Rico," said the manager of the "American circus," said Ralph Pomeroy of the Columbia theater, was a little American circus, which stopped on its way home from Porto Rico and put up a tent in the city of Ponce. It had been working, during which time the tent was packed twice a day with appreciative audiences, but very little money came from the show. The circus and its manager were at the hands of a Spanish official or some other kind of petty official. The way of it was this: The second and third weeks in the city, some United States regular army officers and their families, and their wives and children, were camped just outside of Ponce and just across the road from where the tent was pitched. The Japanese manager of the show said a Spanish official would be his best-paying patron, but the fact that most of them had no pay for about three months completely upset his plans. The circus was a very good one, and the manager had a good deal of money and in no time for amusement of any kind and the result was that very few gave up their camp at the door. The first day the show opened the manager thought to gain the good will of the soldiers by allowing them all free as soon as the performance began. He thus established a precedent, of which the soldiers took advantage at every performance. They would stand around by companies until the wheezy band organ announced that the performance had begun, when they advanced by rushes into the tent, filling every available inch, but committing no violence and keeping the best of order. No circus ever had a more appreciative or demonstrative audience. Every act of the Japanese jugglers, American song and dance team and lady contortionist was applauded. But not even in Porto Rico can a show be an applause, unaccompanied by coin, and at the end of the week poor little Ponce, the Japanese manager, saw his tent and property seized for debt and he and his five performers were compelled to apply to the military authorities for transportation to America, which they got on one of the returning troops. The soldier boys will always feel grateful, however, to Manager Pomeroy for furnishing them the one little ray of amusement that lit up their hard-worked and ill-fated days in Porto Rico. —St. Louis Republic.

JOS. HAWORTH, THE ACTOR.

It Was Learned That He Perished in the Windsor Hotel Fire in Philadelphia Safe and Sound.

PHILADELPHIA, March 20.—The relations in this city of Joseph Haworth, the actor, are fearful that he perished in the Windsor hotel fire. They have heard nothing from him since the burning of the hotel. His sister, Mrs. J. E. McGowan, received on Thursday a letter that he was in Philadelphia. A telegram had been sent on Wednesday, in the letter Mr. Haworth said he would start that day for New York and would stay at the Windsor hotel. He said he was going in company with Rev. E. P. Moore, Jr., of 38 East street, Wall, N. Y. A telegram had been sent to Mr. Moore, but no reply has been received. Mr. Haworth's relatives have not given up hope, but they can not understand why no news of his whereabouts has been received if he is still alive.

A special from Philadelphia says: Joseph Haworth arrived here Sunday night and registered at the Hotel Lafayette. He came direct from Atlantic City.

Tennesses Damaged by a Tornado.

MEMPHIS, Ala., March 20.—The tornado which struck the northern part of Madison county Saturday night did a great deal of damage to houses and farm property, but so far no loss has been reported. The damage in the extreme southern part of Tennessee can not be estimated. Passengers who arrived Saturday night on a train from the north reported that people were coming into the railway stations in quest of physicians to attend the injured.

A Lynchng Failed. MOBILE, Ala., March 20.—W. T. Channel, agent of the Georgia & Alabama railroad at Glenwood, arrested here Saturday night a man in the extreme southern part of Tennessee can not be estimated. Passengers who arrived Saturday night on a train from the north reported that people were coming into the railway stations in quest of physicians to attend the injured.

A Horse's Long Swim. The well-known legend of Sir Robert de Shurland recites how he killed the priest who demanded a fee before he would read the service over a deceased vessel, and how the knight swam his horse some good miles out to sea by the North Foreland to beg pardon to the king, whose ship was sailing by. This legend is paralleled, as far as the equine performance is concerned, by the following incident: The afternoon recently the inhabitants of Boulmar, an isolated fishing village on the coast of Northumberland, were startled by a report that a horse had been found on horseback that a horse ridden by Lord Howland, son of Earl Grey, had been taken to the sea with it.

When the news spread over the people hurried to the scene of the event. A horse, named "Buck," was immediately launched, according to where they were directed by the messenger, but before arrived the horse itself had come to land, after having had a swim about two miles. Lord Howland, it was said, had jumped from his horse at it first took the water, but not having to swim a short distance, Howland swam.

The Mystery of the Two Sleeves.

The case is the most mysterious quick-witted, the end of the prosecution of a skillful lawyer. In an action for recovery of a tailor's account, a witness swore that a certain overcoat was badly made, one sleeve being shorter than the other.

"You wish," said the lawyer, slowly rising to cross-examine, "swear that one of the sleeves was shorter than the other?"

"Then, sir," thundered the lawyer, quick of wit and imagination, "I am to understand that you positively deny that one of the sleeves was longer than the other?"

Startled, the witness said: "I deny it."

THURSDAY, MARCH 23, 1899.

Don't Get Scared.

The greatest show of all ages is billed for a sort of continuous performance this year. Indeed, the first act has already taken place in the form of the late cold snaps. As will be seen in the article headed "Fals' Prophecies," reprinted in this issue, Prof. Rudolph Fals, scientist, is the advance agent of this show and billed the earth some years previously. But along in July and August the performance is to be wildly exciting, when the eastern coast of America is to be washed away by a mighty tidal wave, and earthquakes are to make islands of Florida and California. An intermission lasts then until Nov. 13th, when the greatest of catastrophes is a finish contest between the earth and a comet, rough-and-tumble rules. It may happen that there will be nothing of earth or comet left but cosmic dust. Hence it is not advisable to purchase tickets for any concert after the main performance. The stars may chant a requiem, the music of the spheres may continue a sublime symphony, but if Fals' prophecies come to pass all humanity, as ghosts, can dead-head it at the concert bigger than life.

Prof. Fals' predictions are interesting, but not convincing, despite his standing as a reputable scientist. It is within the bounds of probability that he is really speculating from a scientific basis and permitting his imagination to frolic with his facts.

Astronomy is a favorite field for the speculative scientist. Camille Flammarion, the French astronomer, loves to imagine the dire results likely to follow in time the working out of natural laws.

Our own Iri Hicks, of St. Louis, from a professed scientific standpoint, issues regularly his meteorological forecasts, that are accepted at face value by a wide constituency, although he has failed nearly uniformly to hit on the really important occasions. For instance, he failed in his generally circulated prediction for last month to make any mention of the terrible and long continued cold wave that made a new record in a large part of the United States. Also, for March, 1892 (?), he predicted a dreadful time of earthquakes and storms, when in fact that March turned out to be the most lamb like March in a long series of years. The records will show that he has misused his faculty many times, proving that however much he forecasts from a scientific basis his conclusions are not truly scientific, but are merely speculative. On the other hand, while his predictions partake somewhat of the nature of the utterances of the Delphic oracle, he does forecast the weather often enough to make a great many believe in his prognostications, or, at least, to eagerly read them.

These sorts of scientific speculations are all right in their place, but they are out of their place when they assume to give the value of what will be to what may be. When astronomers agree in calculating what will be the position of the heavenly bodies at a certain time the world accepts their conclusions as truly scientific. If Fals' conclusions are really scientific there ought to be no permanent difficulty in showing to other scientists the accuracy of what he predicts will result from the operation of natural laws. Until he does so laymen ought to feel no more serious apprehensions than they did in regard to Mother Shipton's famous rhymer prophecy of the Comie Ballyhoo that didn't occur in 1881.

But a short time ago gold was money so was inhumanly treated and so severely abused that it did from circulation among the people. But times have changed, and gold has returned among the people, making friends with them and pleading for their hospitality as it hasn't done since the Civil war.

President F. S. Allen, of the Exchange Bank of Sharpburg, received this letter from a correspondent:

"Cincinnati, O., March 13th, 1899.

"Gentlemen:—

"There seems to be a great scarcity of shipping currency—that is, 6s. 6d. per ounce—not only in Cincinnati but all over the country. We cannot get any of this currency from our bank, as they are paying gold for checks on themselves. We may find it necessary for the present to order currency to ship gold. You may be assured we will not ship it if we can get anything else. Please advise us if this meets your approval.

"Yours respectfully,
"O. H. Tuck, Cashier
Ohio Valley Nat. Bank, Cin. O."

At Washington the Treasury Department is forcing gold into circulation, partly because of the scarcity of paper currency and probably partly for the purpose of again familiarizing the people with the yellow money—the real thing, that goes in all the civilized world for its actual weight and fineness, regardless of the credit of the nation that has put its stamp upon it. The United States might be sunk into the sea by a Fals earthquake, but U. S. gold coin would still pass current, not by reason of the stamp upon it, but because of the value of the imperial yellow metal in it; whereas U. S. paper currency in like event would be worth about the same as Confederate paper money.

PIKE, Alford, Harvey and Debe are on a committee the Secretary of which has issued a call for a conference of "progressive men and women" to meet at Buffalo, N. Y., June 25th to July 3d, with a probable view of forming a new party, so it is conjectured. There is a crying need for a new party with Pike the Presidential nominee to divide with Wharton Barker the distinguished honor of advancing the usual time for making nominations.

GIVE William Jennings Bryan credit for a sagacious self-restraint under circumstances the most trying. At Brenham, Texas, a pretty young lady among the crowd at the station blushing asked him to kiss her, but Bryan politely informed her that he wasn't Hobson. That has been one of the dearest on record, as it would have cost Bryan the next Democratic Presidential nomination.

THE pack of wolfish nations are, turn about, taking a bite out of the Chinese sheep. The snarling scramble for a meal to repletion off the carcass is liable to occur at any time. If by some chance the carcass should be poisoned and fatalities should occur in consequence Justice's eye-banage would readily absorb her tears.

A COSTLY item of the late war is that of the claims of American citizens for losses sustained during the Cuban insurrection, the United States having assumed liability for such claims. Already $21,000,000 of them have been filed.

THE Cuban Assembly made an unlucky play in deposing Gea Gomez. Instead of Gomez suffering, the Assembly has about wrecked itself.
